Dear Mr. Anderson:

As always, I was glad to hear from you and I was particularly pleased with your letter of 6 October 1961 in which you express some ideas on a book you hope I will write after I leave the CIA.

The continued interest of the Macmillan Company to have a book by me is indeed encouraging, but I cannot at this time make any commitment. As I told you previously, I have made a record of your interest and will keep your offer in mind.

Kind personal regards.

Sincerely,

Allen W. Dallas
